Star-Hopping: How to Find Your Way Around the Night Sky

If a star chart has ever left you confused or if you can't make out those imaginary figures called constellations, join amateur astronomers to develop basic observational astronomy skills. You will learn to star-hop from one bright star to another and to find constellations named thousands of years ago. Star charts will be provided. Bring a small flashlight.

Meet at Bosque del Apache NWR Visitors Center at 7p.m.
